NUCLEAR ARCHIPELAGO

Secrets, power and the biggest atomic blast in Australia

ELIZABETH TYNAN

- The final book in the award-winning trilogy from Elizabeth Tynan on atomic weapons testing in Australia
- Includes a foreword from Carmen Lawrence, former premier of Western Australia

Nuclear Archipelago tells the shocking story of the two British atomic weapons test series held at Western Australia’s Monte Bello Islands in 1952 and 1956. Operation Hurricane and Operation Mosaic took place at a rugged archipelago 100 kilometres off the Pilbara coast, and each of the three bombs sent fallout over vast distances across the country. One of the tests, Mosaic G2 in June 1956, the largest nuclear weapon test ever held in Australia, sparked panic at the time that it had been a nuclear accident. In both the Mosaic tests, the crew of a British ship was deliberately positioned in the path of fallout. The biodiverse natural environment of the islands was left contaminated and has never been cleaned up.

The book explores the politics, the secrecy and the controversies, including the true nature of Mosaic G2 and its role in the clandestine development of the British hydrogen bomb.

MELBOURNE AIRPORT TULLAMARINE

A history

ARUN CHANDU, MATT HARVEY

- Striking design captures Tullamarine Airport, including its mid-century glory
- The first history of Tullamarine Airport
- Will appeal to plane spotters and anyone interested in transport history

Melbourne Airport, better known to locals as ‘Tullamarine’ or ‘Tulla’, was the first purpose-built Airport City in the world. Its facilities in 1970 were unsurpassed by any international airport – it had a golf course, hotel, conference centre, art gallery, cinema, bottle shop, exhibition centre, multiple bars and a VIP lounge, and a fine-dining restaurant headed by an executive chef on his way to being awarded three Michelin stars. These facilities were built into Tullamarine’s plan by its principal planner and protagonist, Bill Bradfield, the son of John Bradfield, famous as the chief engineer of the Sydney Harbour Bridge.

Today, Tullamarine remains cutting-edge, with new and expanding terminals, upgraded car parks, more efficient roads, a third runway recently approved and a rail link in the works.

Discover the story of Tullamarine, from its planning and opening to its modern status as a benchmark for all international Airport Cities.

‘An outstanding contribution to Australia’s cultural history, superbly illustrated and brilliantly written.’ – Michael Buxton

‘A dazzling and comprehensive account of Australia’s, indeed the world’s, first purpose-built Airport City. Tullamarine (Melbourne Airport) shines here in its glory as never before. A must-read book for anyone interested in Australian ingenuity and the rocky romance of reaching for the skies.’ – Philip Goad

PICTURING THE CLIMATE EMERGENCY

Dennis Del Favero

EDITED BY SUSANNE JULIA THUROW

- Explores a suite of recent climate-related artworks (iFire, Penumbra, Equinox, Medusa and Ellipsis) by world-renowned research artist Dennis Del Favero
- Includes essays from leading international art academics, experts in machine learning, fire professionals and First Nations writers

How can multi-disciplinary artistic works prepare us for future climates?

In his latest works, world-renowned visual artist Dennis Del Favero interrogates our evolving relationship with increasingly unpredictable and extreme climate events. Equinox, an installation that immerses audiences inside larger-than-life wildfire scenarios, offers a visceral reimagining of their unanticipated dynamics. iFire provides a training system for Australia’s largest urban firefighting service, enabling responders to adjust variables such as wind speed, so they can rehearse their response to future fires under the escalating uncertainty of climate conditions.

In Picturing the Climate Emergency, leading international art scholars and experts in artificial intelligence, fire science and emergency response analyse these works and explore their implications for artists, art audiences, scientists, frontline personnel and at-risk communities.

THE HURT

CATHERINE DE SAINT PHALLE

- A beautifully written memoir about a coming of age, set in Paris
- Creative non-fiction about a love affair set in the past, but merging elements of now
- In the spirit of the Stella shortlisted Poum and Alexandre
- National publicity campaign including book events

The Hurt is the story of a first relationship at the age of eighteen. But is it? In The Hurt time is reshuffled and mixed up. As Saint Phalle says, 'Pain ran through my thoughts like a wild animal, making nonsense of past, present and future.' The intriguing narrative is a beguiling mix of memoir and parable, infused with remarkable characters, humour and pathos, and Parisian light.

The author is drawn to the different and the marginalised. Her insight into herself and others arises from her deep understanding of the flawed nature of the human condition. And the company of great books. She writes 'books were my real teachers. I can't remember learning a single thing in a classroom. The craft of reading was the only one I really took away from that dreadful time.'

Just perhaps hurt can be both our undoing and our making, as this story of sliding time illuminates. The Hurt is a remarkably honest and captivating work of literature.

Praise for Saint Phalle's Writing

'Saint Phalle writes with a clear-eyed humanity and wisdom about human nature that is reminiscent of Nabokov's account of memory and childhood.' – Stella Judges

'The narrating voice of the book is intensely likeable – gentle, witty, well-read and highly articulate. Yet the story it unearths circles back and back to the bewildered innocence of a small girl who is lied to, neglected, palmed off on a hired minder, then suddenly, breathtakingly indulged in ways that only a city like Paris can provide.'
– Helen Garner on Poum and Alexandre

THE MEMORY TAPES

Voices from the Oral History Collection of the National Library of Australia

EDITED BY DR SHIRLEENE ROBINSON AM

- Showcases the largest Oral History Collection in the country, which includes portions that are listed on the UNESCO Australian Memory of the World Register
- Comprises extended quotes from well-known Australians, such as Dame Mary Gilmore, Brett Whiteley, Katherine Bennell-Pegg, Gough Whitlam, Neville Bonner, Judith Wright, Thomas Mayo, Charlotte Wood, Mem Fox and many more, as well as everyday Australians, covering historical moments, daily life and stories of hardship, discovery and triumph
- A remarkably diverse book that spans decades, covers the entire nation and includes the voices of Australia's First Peoples and newest arrivals, and refers to nationally significant projects collecting oral histories on aspects of Australian life and history such as the Covid-19 pandemic
- National publicity campaign will include digital/print advertising, radio and media coverage, reviews and events, and a podcast of the same name (releasing in August)

The National Library of Australia's Oral History and Folklore collection is the largest in the country, containing more than 58,000 recorded hours of interviews. Captured in the collection are memories from the mid-nineteenth century to today – deep time to deep space and everything in between. Interviewees describe major moments of social change, cultural creativity, political struggle and everyday experience that will both enhance and challenge your understanding of Australian history.

The Memory Tapes brings together hundreds of interview excerpts, organised into chapters on broad themes, from domestic life to politics. The excerpts capture lived experiences in all their complexities, emotion and contradictions. Readers will get a sense of the textures of memory – tone, hesitation, reflection – learning about the past from the people who lived it. Through the voices of Elders, prime ministers, migrants, scientists, athletes, centenarians, artists and more, this is our national memory.

The archive has long been a form of collection, preservation and communication. As the internet and social media reshape what, why and how we record information, whether for personal or institutional means, the nature of the archive itself is also in flux. How does the archive mediate the relationship between public and private space? How do archives shape individual and collective memory? Should the archivist preserve without intervention? What will the archives of the future look like? And in what ways do other mediums – bodies, places, cultures – act as their own kinds of archive?

This edition of Griffith Review goes on the record to reveal the spoils and surprises of the archive.

THE I CHING OR BOOK OF CHANGES

FOREWORD BY C. G. JUNG, EDITED AND TRANSLATED BY RICHARD WILHELM, TRANSLATED BY CARY F. BAYNES, PREFACE BY HELLMUT WILHELM, INTRODUCTION BY ELIOT WEINBERGER

- The landmark translation that introduced an ancient Chinese Classic to the West – more than one million copies sold

The Wilhelm-Baynes translation of the I Ching, or Book of Changes, has inspired millions with its timeless insights into the changing nature of existence. First set down in the dawn of history as a book of oracles, the I Ching grew into a book of wisdom, eventually becoming one of the Five Classics of Confucianism and providing a common source for both Confucianist and Taoist philosophy. With this groundbreaking translation, the ancient Classic came to the West, where it has influenced countless artists and writers, from Bob Dylan and Philip K. Dick to John Cage and Octavio Paz. Organised for easy reference, it presents the sixty-four hexagrams alongside their commentaries and interpretations, including the Ten Wings, supplemental writings traditionally ascribed to Confucius that provide indispensable perspectives on the symbolic structure of the hexagrams. Featuring C. G. Jung’s illuminating foreword, and now with a new introduction by internationally acclaimed essayist Eliot Weinberger, this essential edition preserves the spirit of the ancient text while providing a vital key for anyone seeking to live harmoniously with the immutable law of change.

PIZZA BEFORE WE DIE

An Eyewitness Account in Gaza

HASSAN KANAFANI, WITH YASUKO THANH

- Originating as a series of Reddit dispatches, the book is a first-hand account of the unfolding tragedy in Gaza by an ordinary citizen bearing witness to it
- The title refers to a passage in the book in which the author overhears two young girls talking about their dream to taste pizza before they die: a moment that is both beautiful and fatalistic
- This is a rare book that describes the fluid situation in Gaza not from a war correspondent's perspective, but that of an ordinary citizen. It is as up-to-date as possible; the current manuscript includes passages written in July 2025
- A portion of proceeds from the sale of Pizza Before We Die will be donated to Doctors Without Borders / Médecins Sans Frontières

The human tragedy unfolding in Gaza has been made all the more tragic by the widespread denial and apathy expressed by much of the rest of the world. Here is an urgent first-hand account of life and death in Gaza, written not by a war correspondent, but an ordinary citizen whose life was upended when the genocide began.

In the midst of the chaos, Hassan began posting about his daily experiences on Reddit. Three activists, moved by his words, started collecting his posts without a clear plan – only the conviction that his story needed to be seen and that somehow, it might help raise funds for him. By chance, those posts found their way to award-winning author Yasuko Thanh, who helped Hassan frame them for a book.

Hassan's missives are a vivid, heartbreaking account of war and its toll – on families, on children, on innocent civilians. These are stories of hunger, survival, and death. These are stories that demand to be heard. And yet, stories like these are not being told: mainstream media has largely remained silent. Foreign journalists are barred from Gaza. Local journalists are being killed. In this vacuum, Hassan's voice manages to break through out of the darkness and into the light.

Pizza Before We Die is literary journalism at its rawest and most urgent – clear-eyed, unflinching, and deeply humane. Hassan captures the unspeakable horror of the tragedy in Gaza with restraint and precision, never sensationalising, always bearing witness. It is a work of raw power and emotion, and a reminder that in the midst of chaos and tragedy, our shared humanity remains intact.

Yasuko Thanh, who edited this book, has also written the foreword.

‘I highly commend this intimate, heart wrenching, and informative account of one of the single most important events in our recent past.’
– Peter Garrett, musician, activist and former federal minister

YIJARNI

True stories from Gurindji Country, Second edition

EDITED BY FELICITY MEAKINS, ERIKA CHAROLA

- A landmark anniversary edition released to commemorate 60 years since the Wave Hill Walk-Off, the historic action that helped ignite the movement towards land rights and native title recognition in Australia
- A powerful new foreword by Professor Brenda L. Croft, from the Gurindji/Malngin/Mudburra Peoples
- Essential reading for anyone seeking to understand Australian history and land rights

On 23 August 1966, approximately 200 Gurindji stockmen and their families walked off Wave Hill Station in the Northern Territory, protesting against poor working conditions and the taking of their land by pastoralists.

Led by Vincent Lingiari, this landmark action in 1966 precipitated the equal wages case in the pastoral industry and the establishment of the Aboriginal Land Rights (Northern Territory) Act 1976.

While it is well known that the Walk-Off was driven by the poor treatment of Aboriginal workers, what is less well known is the previous decades of massacres and killings, stolen children and other abuses by early colonists.

OUT OF THE DEPTHS

The first collection of Holocaust songs
 JOSEPH TOLTZ, ANNA BOUCHER

- A unique historical document, originally compiled shortly after the Second World War and extremely rare
- Presents lyrics and melodies of the songs, with sensitive new translations from the Yiddish
- Features short biographies of the writers and composers of the songs, based on extensive research and interviews with family members
- Contains an expert essay on Jewish music

Available for the first time in English translation, this collection of songs is a powerful memorial to the victims of the Holocaust.

In June 1945, before the full devastation of the Holocaust had emerged, a team of researchers embarked on a remarkable project. While documenting the experiences of Jewish refugees, they began to collect songs composed and sung in the Nazi camps and ghettos. The resulting book, Mima'amakim (Out of the depths), was published in a short run of 500 copies. Today, only a handful survive.

Out of the Depths: The first collection of Holocaust songs presents the contents of this extraordinary document for a new generation of readers. Introductory essays provide historical and musicological background, deepening our knowledge of this terrible event and the creative means by which the Jewish people responded to and endured it.

THE FIREARM REVOLUTION

From Renaissance Italy to the European Empires
CATHERINE FLETCHER

- A groundbreaking account of how firearms changed Europe and the world

In Renaissance Italy, the gun was not only a tool of war but also a desirable object, a luxury item carried at court. Guns were in use on the battlefield by 1440; later in that century Leonardo da Vinci sketched a design for a faster-firing, more portable handgun that could be hidden beneath a cloak. As the gun proliferated in society, it became both a means of self-defence and a threat to civic order. In The Firearm Revolution, historian Catherine Fletcher explores the emergence of firearms in Renaissance Italy and beyond, describing the social transformations that accompanied the evolution of the handgun from innovative military technology to widely used personal accessory.

Fletcher shows that as guns became smaller and the new wheellock mechanism made concealed carry possible, Italian states increasingly tried to control their use – even as they viewed firearms as necessary for their militias. In the end, Fletcher reports, the importance of civic defence trumped the concern for social order. As guns became ever more acceptable, stories of how firearms aided Europeans’ overseas conquests created a new and more positive image for a weapon once considered the devil’s work.

THE ROMAN WORLD WAR

From the Ides of March to Cleopatra’s Suicide
GIUSTO TRAINA, TRANSLATED BY MALCOLM DEBEVOISE

- How the ruthless contest among Julius Caesar’s heirs ignited a global war that raged far beyond the borders of Rome

The succession of civil wars that plagued the last years of the Roman Republic has often been portrayed as a settling of scores between Roman factions – Sulla against Marius, Caesar against Pompey, Octavian against Mark Antony – with foreign campaigns serving as a backdrop to the tragic spectacle. The Roman World War recasts the struggle for Rome as a global conflict that engulfed millions of non-Romans across Europe, Asia, and Northern Africa.

Shedding new light on the pivotal years spanning Caesar’s assassination in 44 BCE and the suicides of Mark Antony and Cleopatra in 30 BCE, Giusto Traina introduces readers to lesser-known figures such as the Cilician dynast Tarcondimotus, the king of the Moors Bogud, and the Armenian king Artawazd, men who influenced Rome’s politics and who played consequential roles in battles waged far beyond the borders of the Imperium Romanum. Traina demonstrates how the violence unleashed by Caesar’s death was a direct consequence of his expansionist plans. From Spain to Mesopotamia, peoples such as Berbers, Hispanics, Gauls, Greeks, Thracians, and Armenians were drawn into a global war in which the fate of Rome was tied to their own.

EARTH AND LIFE

A Four Billion Year Conversation

ANDREW H. KNOLL

- From the world-renowned geobiologist and bestselling author of A Brief History of Earth, the epic story of a planetary conversation four billion years in the making

How did the world as we know it – from the soil beneath our feet to the air we breathe and the life that surrounds us – come to be? Geologists have proposed one set of answers while biologists have proposed another. Earth and Life is the first book to reveal why we need to listen to both voices – the physical and the biological – to understand how we and our planet became possible.

In this captivating book, Andrew Knoll traces how all life is sustained by Earth’s geological and atmospheric dynamics, and how life itself shapes the physical environment. Taking readers on a thrilling journey across four billion years of Earth history, he shows how Earth and life interact to cycle the very elements of life from rocks, water, and air, and how these and related processes control our climate, regulate our atmosphere, and support the diversification of life-forms great and small. Along the way, Knoll explains how we can draw on this history as we navigate the challenges of the Anthropocene, and how it can aid our search for life elsewhere in the universe.

THE IRRATIONAL DECISION

How We Gave Computers the Power to Choose for Us

BENJAMIN RECHT

- How the computer revolution shaped our conception of rationality – and why human problems require solutions rooted in human intuition, morality, and judgement

In the 1940s, mathematicians set out to design computers that could act as ideal rational agents in the face of uncertainty. The Irrational Decision tells the story of how they settled on a peculiar mathematical definition of rationality in which every decision is a statistical question of risk. Benjamin Recht traces how this quantitative standard came to define our understanding of rationality, looking at the history of optimisation, game theory, statistical testing, and machine learning. He explains why, now more than ever, we need to resist efforts by powerful tech interests to drive public policy and essentially rule our lives.

While mathematical rationality has proven valuable in accelerating computers, regulating pharmaceuticals, and deploying electronic commerce, it fails to solve messy human problems and has given rise to a view of a rational world that is not only overquantified but surprisingly limited. Recht shows how these mathematical methods emerged from wartime research and influenced fields ranging from economics to health care, drawing on illuminating examples ranging from diet planning to chess to self-driving cars.

‘A must-read for first-timers...[and] a constant delight for those already well-versed in a fascinating nation.’
 – Iberosphere

THE PORTUGUESE

A Modern History, Updated edition
 BARRY HATTON

- An established classic history of Portugal
- Author is a journalist who has been based in Lisbon for over 30 years
- A concise and thorough narrative history of this beguiling country

An intimate portrait of this fascinating country, capturing its contradictions and charms.

Though a founding member of NATO and the euro, Portugal is often overlooked, a small country on Europe’s southwestern edge. In The Portuguese, veteran journalist Barry Hatton blends historical insight with personal anecdotes to explore this enigmatic nation.

During the 1400s and 1500s, Portuguese explorers led Europe into the Atlantic and helped connect Asia with Europe, creating a vast four-continent empire. This legacy still resonates today, particularly through the Portuguese language, spoken by over 220 million people worldwide. Hatton examines Portugal’s vibrant yet turbulent past – from the 1755 Lisbon earthquake, which shook European thinking and began a long decline, through António Salazar’s dictatorship, to its end in the 1974 Carnation Revolution, briefly thrusting Portugal into Cold War geopolitics. Hatton also explores the country’s complex ties with neighbouring Spain, and its oldest ally, England.

THE FUTURE

A User’s Guide
 FLORENCE GAUB

- A guide for both everyday readers and policymakers on using creativity and knowledge to imagine the best, prepare for the worst and live with surprise
- Draws on history and neuroscience, psychology, and philosophy
- Offers a guide on everything from the usefulness of daydreaming to the rational handling of uncertainty

A guide for both everyday readers and policymakers on using creativity and knowledge to imagine the best, prepare for the worst and live with surprise.

Widespread pessimism and fear of the future are everywhere. With times to come often seeming threatening and uncertain, this book offers new perspectives and fresh ways of thinking. Futurologist Florence Gaub shows that everyone can influence what lies ahead – in their personal or professional life, or in society. Her ideas are for those who refuse to be paralysed by fear, instead seeing the future as a space full of possibilities.

Gaub explores how humanity’s visions of tomorrow have changed throughout history; she explains what the future is, how it works, what disruptions may arise and how to fix them.

THE LITTLE BOOK OF FAIRIES
CAROLYNE LARRINGTON

- Covering the origins of fairies through to bestselling romantasy and children’s media, The Little Book of Fairies explores the fascinating history of one of folklore’s most complicated creatures
- An authoritative guide, written by a leading scholar in medieval literature and mythology
- Retellings of beloved and lesser-known fairy tales exploring fairies’ mature mythological origins, presented alongside beautiful historic illustrations and artwork

In our modern age fairies are diminutive, winged spirits associated with the innocence of childhood, or else the brooding heroes of popular romantasy books. But the fairies of the British Isles have taken many guises. To the early Britons they were fallen angels or relegated pagan gods, denizens of a strange world parallel to our own. In whispered tales, they can be found orchestrating shipwrecks, blinding queens, kidnapping musicians for their secret revels, and luring human lovers into the greenwood with their seductive beauty and beguiling promises.

THE LITTLE BOOK OF UNICORNS
JULIETTE WOOD

- The fourth title in the Little Books series to take a mythological creature and explore its cultural history and the rich storytelling tradition associated with it
- Illustrated with gorgeous images from the British Library manuscripts and printed books collections
- Explores the influence that winged horses of myth and legend, such as Pegasus, have had on the unicorn’s appearance

This elusive creature was originally thought to inhabit the edge of the known world. Biblical and classical material, travellers’ tales, clerical writings and theological speculation influenced the perceived appearance of this noble beast, but the graceful white horse with a single long horn remains its most recognisable embodiment. The medieval unicorn became a potent symbol of religious and secular love which has continued to inspire poets, writers and artists.

As belief in the unicorn’s reality waned, a renewed interest in the medieval past provided a context for it to flourish once again as a subject for art, literature and mystical meditation.

THE SECRET LIFE OF A CEMETERY

The Wild Nature and Enchanting Lore of Père-Lachaise

BENOÎT GALLOT, ILLUSTRATED BY DANIEL CASANAVE, TRANSLATED BY ARIELLE AARONSON

- Now in paperback!
- The book seamlessly weaves together the rich history and legends of Père-Lachaise with contemporary anecdotes and developments. Readers will learn about the cemetery's famous residents and historic events alongside recent rewilding efforts and modern-day interactions

From the head curator of the most famous cemetery in the world – a moving and ‘enchanting’ (Guardian) story about a place where joy, grief, and wild nature converge in unexpected and inspiring ways.

For Benoît Gallot, Père Lachaise is best explored without a guide: You're guaranteed to lose your way. You'll feel as though you've stepped out of time, out of Paris, and into another place entirely. In his debut memoir, Gallot, head curator of Père Lachaise and son of a grave stonemason, pulls back the curtains on his otherworldly workplace – a cemetery crammed with tourists in the high season and mourners year round, but also a natural paradise, where foxes roam, birds flit between trees, and wildflowers and moss encroach onto tombstones.

IRAN'S GRAND STRATEGY

A Political History

VALI NASR

- Now in paperback, updated for 2026
- From the New York Times bestselling author of *The Shia Revival
- A gripping account that overturns simplistic portrayals of Iran as a theocratic pariah state, revealing how its strategic moves on the world stage are driven by two pervasive threats – external aggression and internal dissolution

Iran presents one of the most significant foreign policy challenges for America and the West, yet very little is known about what the country's goals really are. Vali Nasr examines Iran's political history in new ways to explain its actions and ambitions on the world stage, showing how, behind the veneer of theocracy and Islamic ideology, today's Iran is pursuing a grand strategy aimed at securing the country internally and asserting its place in the region and the world.

Drawing on memoirs, oral histories, and original in-depth interviews with Iranian decision makers, Nasr brings to light facts and events in Iran's political history that have been overlooked until now. He traces the roots of Iran's strategic outlook to its experiences over the past four decades of war with Iraq in the 1980s and the subsequent American containment of Iran, invasion of Iraq in 2003, and posture toward Iran thereafter.

THE MEDIEVAL GUIDE TO HEALTHY LIVING

KATHERINE HARVEY

- A fresh look at medieval wellness that echoes modern healthy living concerns

We often think of medieval medicine as strange, unhygienic and unscientific, but The Medieval Guide to Healthy Living reveals a far richer story. Long before modern wellness trends, people in the Middle Ages were actively thinking about how to live well. They followed detailed health regimens, balanced diet with exercise, considered the effects of emotions and sought to avoid illness through environmental awareness and routine care. This book sheds light on the practical and surprisingly relatable ways medieval individuals cared for body and mind. Drawing from historical sources that echo today's wellness concerns, it offers a fresh, thoughtful view of a misunderstood era. In understanding their world, we might see our own in a new, more connected light.

THE MUSEUM OF IMAGINARY MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

DEIRDRE LOUGHRIDGE, THOMAS PATTESON

- Imagined instruments reveal how we shape music – and how music shapes us

The Museum of Imaginary Musical Instruments is a guided tour through centuries of instruments that never existed. From ancient myths to futuristic media, these imagined devices appear in literature, theory, video games and art, at times echoing real instruments, other times pushing far beyond the bounds of technology. This book presents a wide-ranging collection of such creations, showing how they reflect changing ideas about sound, invention and the limits of the possible. At once a cultural history and a study of creative thought, it uncovers unexpected links between music, design and the human urge to make meaning through sound. These are not just fictional artefacts – they are windows into what music might mean, even when it cannot be played.

THIS ONE WILD AND PRECIOUS LIFE
our path forward in a fractured world
SARAH WILSON

- Introducing Eye Books!
- The path back to connection in a fractured world

Many of us are living with the sense that things are not right with the world and are in a state of spiritual post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). We have retreated, morally and psychologically; we are experiencing a crisis of disconnection – from one another, from our true values, from joy, and from life as we feel we are meant to be living it.

In a radical spiritual guidebook, New York Times bestselling author Sarah Wilson argues that this sense of despair and disconnection is ironically what unites us – that deep down, we are all feeling that same itch for a new way of living. Drawing on science, literature, philosophy and the wisdom of some of the world's leading experts, and her personal journey, Wilson offers a hopeful path forward to the life we love.

The time has come to boldly, wildly imagine better. We are being called upon, individually and as a society, to forge a new path and to find a new way of living. Will you join the journey?

'Sarah Wilson is a force of nature. She has taken her pain and grief about our sick and troubled world and alchemised it into action, advocacy, adventure, poetry and love. I admire her with all my soul.' – Elizabeth Gilbert, author of Eat Pray Love

FLIPPING PATRIARCHY
Imagining a gender-swapped world
MAN WHO HAS IT ALL

- Introducing Wilton Square Books!
- An explosive satire of gender stereotypes that flips patriarchy on its head to highlight sexist double standards

Exploring subjects like work and comedy, history and sport, the beauty industry and domesticity, anonymous author Man Who Has It All imagines a world in which men are bombarded with the same stereotypical bullshit as women. What if men's T-shirts were emblazoned with slogans encouraging them to be smiley, positive and kind? What if we laughed at jokes about fathers-in-law, male drivers and middle-class men of a certain age? What if men's history was a niche topic? Behind the jokes about crazy cat gentlemen, testicular men and the twenty-four-hour moustache, lies a deeper, darker message about language, power and control.

Smart and provocative, Man Who Has It All shines a powerful light on the prejudice ingrained in our society. Told through fictionalised scenarios and wider cultural analysis, this is a feminist handbook that will arm you against the patriarchy.

'Funny and insightful, but also fiercely radical.' – Victoria Smith

'Takes on patriarchy with wit, verve and a mighty dose of good old British sarcasm.' – Viv Groskop, author of How to Own the Room

CHOOSE YOUR AGE

Unlocking the Cellular Science of Longevity

JEAN-MARC LEMAITRE, TRANSLATED BY BRONWYN HASLAM

- For readers of Outlive and Superagers
- Redefines what it means to grow older, revealing that your biological age – not just the number on your birthday cake – can be influenced and even reversed through your choices and mindset
- Blends storytelling, real-life examples, and cutting-edge research, offering you a roadmap to thrive, not just survive, at any age

In this groundbreaking manual for longevity, leading longevity expert Jean-Marc Lemaître reveals how the latest science can help you measure, slow, and even reverse biological aging at a cellular level.

For generations, we've accepted aging as an inevitable decline, measuring our years by birthdays while ignoring the more crucial metric – our biological age. Traditional medicine continues to treat the symptoms of age-related diseases rather than addressing their root cause: cellular aging itself. Too often, healthcare systems intervene only after disease has taken hold, managing decline rather than preventing it.

Choose Your Age provides a new paradigm for thinking about aging, transforming it from an inevitable decline into a manageable process that you can influence at every stage of life.

THE FOX, THE SHREW, AND YOU

How Brains Evolved

ROGIER B. MARS

- A leading neuroscientist describes the long evolutionary process that led to the human brain

Our human brain is both unique and similar to that of other species. The only way we can trace its evolution is by comparing it to the brains of animals alive today. In this book, leading neuroscientist Rogier Mars offers an engaging account of the evolution of the brain by exploring the brains and cognitive capacities of animals from the humble sea squirt to the socially minded fox and the tiny shrew.

By examining the challenges that different animals and their ancestors faced, Mars shows that we can understand what drove the evolution of their brains. Early vertebrates became predators of the sea; mammals evolved a complex neocortex to deal with foraging for high-energy food; and social primates adapted to contend with a fast-changing environment in which groups of individuals team up to get food. Over the course of a long evolutionary road, the ancestors of present-day animals and their descendants continually adapted to challenges, modifying their brains again and again. For us humans, this process gradually led to a brain that is capable of so much, from inventing language to traveling into space.

PATTI SMITH ON PATTI SMITH

Interviews and Encounters

EDITED BY AIDAN LEVY

- Now in paperback!
- Widely circulated interviews with Patti Smith in major outlets like Spin and Rolling Stone are compiled alongside obscure and hard to find material
- The book begins with Smith's first published interview and traces her artistic development across five decades

From the moment Patti Smith burst onto the scene, chanting 'Jesus died for somebody's sins, but not mine', the irreverent opening line to Horses, her 1975 debut album, the punk movement had found its dissident intellectual voice. Yet outside the recording studio – Smith has released eleven studio albums – the punk poet laureate has been perhaps just as revelatory and rhapsodic in interviews, delivering off-the-cuff jeremiads that emboldened a generation of disaffected youth and imparting hard-earned life lessons. With her characteristic blend of bohemian intellectualism, antiauthoritarian poetry, and unflinching optimism, Smith gave them hope in the transcendent power of art. Her interview archive serves as a compelling counternarrative to the albums and books. Initially, interviewing Patti Smith was a censorship liability. Contemptuous of staid rules of decorum, no one knew what she might say, whether they were getting the romantic, swooning for Lorca and Blake, or the firebrand with no respect for an on-air seven-second delay.

SPINOZA, ATHEIST

STEVEN NADLER

- From Pulitzer Prize finalist Steven Nadler, a fascinating historical and philosophical narrative that unravels the mystery of whether Spinoza was an atheist

In 1656, a young Amsterdam merchant was excommunicated by his Portuguese-Jewish community in the harshest terms it had ever used. Baruch Spinoza was accused of unspecified 'horrifying heresies', but the precise reasons for his expulsion remain a mystery. When he published his Theological-Political Treatise in 1670, which was condemned as 'the most atheistic book ever written', he began to reveal to the world what his heresies may have been. Yet ever since the eighteenth century, most readers and scholars have assumed that Spinoza was a pantheist – even a 'God-intoxicated man', as the poet Novalis put it. After all, how could a person whose books are suffused with talk of God be an atheist? In Spinoza, Atheist, Steven Nadler, one of the world's leading authorities on the philosopher, aims to settle the question and show that that's exactly what he was.

Nadler makes a powerful case that there is no real divinity for Spinoza. God is Nature, and isn't an object of worshipful awe or religious reverence but can only be understood through philosophy and science. There is nothing supernatural – no mystery, ineffability, or sublimity. Spinoza does speak of 'blessedness' and 'salvation', but these, too, are to be understood in natural and rational terms, as the peace of mind and happiness that come from understanding ourselves and the world.

YOUR GUIDE TO FOREST BATHING

Experience the Healing Power of Nature
M. AMOS CLIFFORD

- Backlist highlight!
- The bestselling guide to forest bathing with a new section of hands-on forest bathing practices and space for journal entries and reflections

Simply being present in the natural world, with all of our senses fully alive, can have a remarkably healing effect. It can also awaken in us our latent but profound connection with all living things. This is 'forest bathing', a practice inspired by the Japanese tradition of shinrin-yoku. It is a gentle, meditative approach to being with nature and an antidote to our nature-starved lives that can heal our relationship with the more-than-human world.

In Your Guide to Forest Bathing, you'll discover a path that you can use to begin a practice of your own that includes specific activities presented by Amos Clifford, one of the world's most experienced forest bathing experts.

THE TYRANNY OF THE OBJECT

An Introduction to the Barbarism of Art History

PAUL B. JASKOT, PHOTOGRAPHS BY STEVE HARP

- Paul B. Jaskot's The Tyranny of the Object is the third title for Power Polemics, a series that puts art hard up against political and personal viewpoints from some of the leading thinkers and writers in the field today

In this lively polemic, Paul B. Jaskot confronts art history's ideological preoccupation with the art object. To unbind art history from this fixation, Jaskot proposes centring our art-historical inquiry on systems of power, rather than on the art object. Modelling this shift, Jaskot asks: what might an art history of oppression, power and barbarism look like? The study that follows is divided into three parts – empire, war and labour – which each draw from a constellation of examples, ranging from the architecture of the early modern era to that of Nazi Germany, from the transatlantic slave trade to contemporary exhibition making.

BOWS AND ARROWS

The Autobiography

JULIAN LLOYD WEBBER

- 2026 will see the release of Julian's first recording for fourteen years, along with a 75th birthday collection (both on Decca Records)
- Julian is the creator and presenter of Classic FM's ongoing series Rising Stars on Sky Arts TV. He gives masterclasses around the world and is a regular speaker at festivals

The explosive, no-holds-barred account of the life of a globally renowned classical musician, Julian Lloyd Webber's autobiography lifts the lid on a world previously shrouded in mystery.

With refreshing honesty and humour, Julian recounts the break-up of three of his four marriages, his lifelong passion for ensuring that every child should have a chance to play a musical instrument and his devastation at the 2014 injury that forced him to stop playing and sell his Stradivarius cello.

RECLAIMING THE INTERNET

How Big Tech Took Control – and How We Can Take It Back

OLIVIER SYLVAIN

- Any attempts to govern the business practices of companies like Meta or Google are met with fierce arguments about free speech, resulting in a dangerously under-regulated industry. As Sylvain puts it, there's only one other industry that enjoys the kind of regulatory immunity of tech companies: the gun industry. Reclaiming the Internet dismantles the libertarian mythology that shaped internet law and calls for a new legal regime that protects users over platforms

Recovering the Internet is an indictment of how Big Tech cloaks ruthless commercial exploitation in the language of free speech. Olivier Sylvain, a leading legal scholar and former senior advisor at the Federal Trade Commission, exposes the incentives behind social media design, revealing how they trap users in cycles of addiction, misinformation, and harm – from fatal TikTok challenges to AI chatbot codependency.

RUSSIA AND IRAN

Partners in Defiance from Syria to Ukraine

NICOLE GRAJEWSKI

- Charts the evolution of the Russia-Iran relationship in the twenty-first century, from tenuous alignment to robust partnership
- The definitive account of contemporary Russia-Iran relations
- Draws on extensive Russian and Persian primary sources, and interviews with elites from both countries

Vladimir Putin's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in 2022 has cast a spotlight on Russia's burgeoning partnership with Iran. Moscow looked to Tehran for drones and ammunition to fuel its so-called 'special military operation', and Iran's support for Russia's war reflected a decade-long strengthening of Russo-Iranian ties, beginning with the 2011 outbreak of the Syrian Civil War.

QADDAFI

Beyond the Myth

RONALD BRUCE ST JOHN

- The dramatic life and death of Libya's eccentric leader

This book explores the life of Muammar al-Qaddafi, the enigmatic Libyan leader, from his birth to his assassination in a drainage ditch outside the city of Sirte in October 2011. The first authoritative biography of Qaddafi, it aims to make sense of his remarkable life and times. Known for his idiosyncratic ideas and flamboyant dress, his persona was also a cloak he used to obscure his personal and professional life. Qaddafi created a repressive political system, supported terrorist movements abroad and suppressed basic human rights at home, while abusing hundreds of women.

Qaddafi: Beyond the Myth provides a comprehensive look at the forces that shaped Qaddafi and enabled him to become the world's longest-ruling head of state.

WORSE THAN WAR

The Global Costs of Violence

ANKE HOEFFLER, JAMES D. FEARON

- An empirically powerful account of why interpersonal violence across the globe exacts a far greater cumulative cost on society than war and terrorism combined

Civil wars, interstate wars, and terrorism receive a great deal of media and policy attention, for good reasons. By contrast, the major forms of interpersonal violence – homicide, intimate partner violence, and severe physical punishment of children – generally have a much lower profile.

In Worse than War, Anke Hoefler and James Fearon assemble and analyse the data on the global prevalence and costs of collective and interpersonal violence. They show that interpersonal violence is vastly more widespread and imposes far greater societal costs than collective violence. Wars tend to be concentrated in a small number of countries, and often relatively small areas within them.

THE EVOLUTION OF FIRE

Essays on Crisis and Becoming

ANGELA PELSTER

- Readers will find Pelster’s masterfully crafted essays share common ground with beloved and bestselling works from that of Margaret Renkl, Aimee Nezhukumatathil, Ross Gay, and Lydia Millet

From the celebrated author of Limber, a luminous collection of essays about crisis, hope, and the decision to resist or embrace evolution – a book about time, for our time.

Crisis is an agent of evolution, and Angela Pelster knows what it means to evolve. As a child, she burned grass to keep weeds at bay and watched tadpoles transform.

Meditative and curious, pulsing with fascination, fear, and the untameable human spirit, The Evolution of Fire contemplates who we are now and what we still might become.

TREASURES ON EARTH

Buried Wealth in Landscape and Legend

JEREMY HARTE

- Uncovers the deep folklore of Britain's buried riches, fears, and desires

From haunted barrows to ruined castles, Britain's landscape is rich with tales of hidden treasure – stories not just of gold, but of ghosts, curses and forbidden knowledge. Treasures on Earth gathers hundreds of these traditions for the first time, showing how folklore, shaped by local memory and longing, has imagined wealth not merely as currency, but as power, danger and loss. These legends tell of dragons, demons and seekers armed with spells, but also of real hopes stirred by poverty, war and the mysteries of place. Through vivid storytelling and careful insight, this book reveals how treasure lore carries the emotional weight of history. In the end, these are stories not just about what is buried, but about why we still yearn to uncover it.

FIRST HELPINGS

A History of Children and Food

DEBORAH ALBON, AMY PALMER

- How childhood and food have shaped each other through history – and still do

What should children eat and why? How should they eat it, and what should they learn about food? Answers to questions like these have differed over time. First Helpings explores the relationship between children and food in history, drawing on a rich variety of social records, cookery and etiquette books, and children's literature. Topics covered include breast/bottle feeding, the difference between 'adult' and 'children's' food and drink, table manners, school meals, and learning to cook. Deborah Albon and Amy Palmer discuss wider social issues, such as teaching children about the ethics of food choices, the role children have played in food production, and the ever-present scandal of hungry children in society. First Helpings provides a unique look at childhood and eating that relates the past to the present and considers ways forward.

CYNEFIN

Wisdom from a Thousand years of Welsh Nature Poetry

CARWYN GRAVES

- From the author of Tir, shortlisted for the Wales Non-Fiction Book of the Year
- This book provides contemporary relevance in addressing issues around the climate emergency
- For readers of natural history as well as poetry

Reimagine our relationship with the natural world through the Welsh poetic tradition.

At a time of biodiversity loss and climate grief, we need to reset our relationship with the natural world. Cynefin helps us hear the voices of people down the centuries who have, through poetry, expressed a different way of connecting with the living world around us.

Carwyn Graves explores how the Welsh poetic tradition offers a different view of nature and connecting to our place in the world, and demonstrates its power to help us address the challenges we face.

WHISPERS OF THE ELDER GODS

Norse Myths for the Modern Practitioner

JENNIE APPEL, DIRK GROSSER

- The authors are from Germany, and have many bestsellers in the German language
- Appel and Grosser are experts in Paganism and Norse spirituality

The ancient myths are not silent. They are calling you back to the fire.

In the wild, windswept lands of the North, myths were never mere stories. They were living wisdom – a map of the soul, a dialogue with the animate world, and a source of primal strength. Tales of Odin’s quest for wisdom, Freyja’s fierce magic, Thor’s thunderous journeys, and the World Tree Yggdrasil connecting all realms were told not to escape reality, but to plunge more deeply into its vibrant, sacred heart.

Whispers of the Elder Gods is an invitation to experience Norse mythology as it was meant to be – alive, transformative, and deeply personal.

WHY ANCIENT CHINESE POLITICAL THOUGHT MATTERS

Four Dialogues on China’s Past, Present, and Future

DANIEL A. BELL

- An entertaining introduction to ancient Chinese thinkers – and what they can teach us about today’s most pressing political questions in China and beyond

China’s most original, diverse, and fascinating political debates took place more than two millennia ago, but they have profoundly shaped Chinese political thinking and practice ever since and, remarkably, their influence on the country’s leaders is only growing today. Yet these timeless debates – which are very likely to influence the answers to such questions as whether China should use military force to take control of Taiwan – are still far too little understood in the West.

In this enlightening and entertaining book, Daniel Bell, a leading expert on Chinese political thought, takes the greatest thinkers from China’s past – Confucius, Mencius, Xunzi, Shang Yang, Han Feizi, Zhuangzi, and Mozi – and puts them in dialogue with each other in modern settings.

THE ORIGINS OF THE NEW

Novelty and Innovation in the History of Life, Culture, and Technology

DOUGLAS H. ERWIN

- A visionary look at how novel attributes arise and become transformative innovations in nature, culture, and technology

The Origins of the New presents a revolutionary approach to evolutionary success in all realms of life. In this groundbreaking book, Douglas Erwin takes readers on a dazzling excursion across science and history to explore how evolution generates new and enduring features in biology, culture, and technology.

Erwin begins by tracing how thinkers from Darwin's time to the present day have sought to discover the driving mechanisms of evolutionary novelty. He then lays out compelling empirical evidence for separating novelty from innovation, showing how novelty involves the emergence of unique characteristics while innovation has to do with the success of those characteristics across time.

THINKING AI

How Artificial Intelligence Emulates Human Understanding

JOHN MACCORMICK

- MacCormick reveals a new landscape of emergent intelligence – a world in which computer programs can emulate many or all aspects of human thinking but humanity retains its meaning and purpose

Can a computer program think like a human?

'Can machines think?' Ever since Alan Turing posed this question in an influential 1950 paper, it has been central to research in artificial intelligence. More than seventy-five years after Turing's paper, we grapple with it every time we wonder if Watson was actually smarter than Jeopardy! champions, or if ChatGPT really knows what it's talking about. In Thinking AI, computer scientist John MacCormick explores Turing's question from a perspective informed by a detailed understanding of the way modern AI systems work.

I, WANDERING JEW

A Five-Century History of Our Modern Condition

YAIR MINTZKER

- Combining history, detective story, and memoir, a surprising and revealing account of the antisemitic myth of 'the Wandering Jew'

The story behind the mythical figure of 'the Wandering Jew' is one of the most fascinating tales in European history. In I, Wandering Jew, National Jewish Book Award-winning historian Yair Mintzker traces the tale back to its source, follows its many metamorphoses through five centuries, and relates it to the fraught present moment.

According to a mysterious pamphlet published in 1602, the Wandering Jew was a real person, named Ahasversus, who was cursed by Jesus to eternal wandering after refusing to help him as he was led to his crucifixion. For more than four hundred years, many otherwise reliable witnesses have claimed to have seen the Wandering Jew. Moving in reverse chronological order, I, Wandering Jew explores crucial episodes in the story of this figure.

IN SEARCH OF TRADE AND FORTUNE

John Cabot, Christopher Columbus and the Opening of the Atlantic

LYDIA TOWNS

- Reframes Cabot and Columbus within centuries of Atlantic trade and exploration

What did John Cabot and Christopher Columbus truly achieve – and what did they inherit? In this compelling reassessment, Lydia Towns characterises their voyages not as radical departures, but as chapters in a much older story of Atlantic navigation and commerce.

Beginning with Celtic and Viking seafarers, she outlines the long prelude to the so-called Age of Exploration, showing how knowledge, ambition and trade routes shaped the journeys of Cabot and Columbus. Drawing on recent scholarship, In Search of Trade and Fortune reframes these figures within the systems they extended, not invented.

STAYING POWER

On Queerness, Inheritances,
and the Families We Choose
ZENA SHARMAN

- Zena wrote Staying Power as a way to imagine how we can form families and raise children beyond the nuclear family ‘norm’, and to embrace queer histories of resistance to state and societal attempts to discipline the masses and force us into patterns of normativity

A remarkably frank memoir about interdependence, grieving, and parenting as a queer femme that doesn’t leave out the messy or the erotic.

Staying Power, Zena Sharman’s memoir in essays, is a beautiful and honest journey of care work, grief, parenting, and chosen family in the wake of intergenerational trauma. Exploring the lessons and inheritances of being raised by survivors of complex traumas, the book challenges the notion that one must be healed in order to parent well.

MICHAEL W. COLE

- The landmark study of the first major woman painter of the Renaissance – now revised and expanded to include new discoveries

Since it was first published, Sofonisba's Lesson has ushered in a major reassessment of Sofonisba Anguissola (1532-1625), a remarkable painter who changed the image of women's education in Europe and transformed Western attitudes about who could be an artist. In this revised and expanded edition, Michael Cole reconsiders some central questions of authorship and shares the major discoveries that have been made since this influential book first came out.

The daughter of minor Lombard aristocrats who made the unprecedented decision to have her trained as a painter outside the family house, Sofonisba produced more self-portraits than any known painter before her.

DISNEYLAND AND THE RISE OF AUTOMATION

How Technology Created the Happiest Place on Earth

ROLAND BETANCOURT

- A history of the engineering marvels behind one of America's most innovative and beloved entertainment experiences

When Disneyland opened to the public in 1955, it demystified the hidden world of factory automation through its extraordinary new attractions. In this fascinating book, Roland Betancourt tells the story of how the visionary engineers and designers at Disney transformed the technologies of the postwar assembly line into an entertainment experience unlike anything the world had ever seen.

Disneyland and the Rise of Automation traces the origins and evolution of these technical innovations during the theme park's first three decades in operation, exploring how engineers reimagined the systems and machines of industrial manufacturing and the military.

CASTRATO PHANTOMS

Moreschi, Fellini, and the Sacred Vernacular in Rome
 MARTHA FELDMAN

- A new mapping of castrato afterlives in modern Rome

Around 1830, opera houses stopped using castrati, and Rome and the Vatican became home to their glorious singing, engineered by surgery and intensive vocal training.

Castrati were long mired in secrecy, obfuscations, and lies about their origin and conditions, not least the last of them, Alessandro Moreschi. Musicologist Martha Feldman declines to accept these deep-seated mysteries and concealments. After a decade and more of digging through archives and family histories comes her exciting transdisciplinary and quasi-cinematic account of Moreschi, whose recordings preserve the only sonic trace of a solo castrato.

Yet Moreschi's story extends far beyond him. It opens up intrigues, politics, and histories of the Vatican, everyday histories of 19th and 20th century Rome.

THE FIRST EMANCIPATION

The Forgotten History of Abolition in Revolutionary France

JEREMY D. POPKIN

- A new history of slavery and the French Revolution

The First Emancipation is a dramatic account of how slavery and race profoundly influenced the course of the French Revolution and had a central impact on the lives of key leaders, including Mirabeau, Robespierre, Toussaint Louverture, and Napoleon. Acclaimed historian Jeremy D. Popkin brings this often-forgotten story to life, highlighting the arguments put forward by French abolitionists and their opponents and the profound repercussions of the first abolition of slavery in a Western empire.

The story of how France emancipated its enslaved people and declared them full citizens only to return many of them to bondage, The First Emancipation reveals that the course of abolition in the modern world was more winding and halting than is often remembered.

NAVIGATIONS

The Portuguese Discoveries and the Renaissance

MALYN NEWITT

- A critical reassessment of world-shaping Portuguese voyages of discovery that places these quests in historical context

The lasting impact of historic Portuguese voyages of discovery is unquestionable. The slave trade, the diaspora of the Sephardic Jews, and the intercontinental spread of plants and animals all make clear these voyages' long-term global significance.

Navigations reexamines these Portuguese quests by placing them in their medieval and Renaissance settings. It shows how these voyages grew out of a crusading ethos, as well as long-distance trade with Asia and Africa and developments in map-making and ship design.

THE MATTER OF ARCHITECTURE

Geology, Buildings and Us

PAUL DOBRASZCZYK

- What building today tells us about tomorrow's Earth – and our place on it

Geology is the architecture of our planet and what we build has always been dependent on what the earth has already made. Yet in recent decades we, rather than the planet, have produced the geology of the future: millions of tonnes of concrete, plastic, brick, metal and other fabricated materials are quickly piling up to eventually become new strata. Can we recover a more equitable relationship to the earth?

Providing a provocative and original take on the relationship between ecology and architecture, this book asks what architects do with, and what they might learn from, what the earth creates. From caves and crystals to volcanoes and earthquakes, The Matter of Architecture delves deep to mine a different way of building.

A COOL HEAD IN HELL

The Wartime Diaries of a British Doctor from Dunkirk to the Burma Railway

HARRY SILMAN, EDITED BY JACQUELINE PASSMAN

- Rare, contemporaneous, first-hand and peerlessly detailed account of major WWII events, including Dunkirk, the fall of Singapore and brutal captivity under Japanese rule in the Far East

A Cool Head in Hell is a compelling historical narrative based on Harry Silman's diaries, comprising one of the most comprehensive accounts by a POW under the Japanese to survive WWII.

Silman joined the British Army in 1939 as a medical officer. In 1940, he was one of the last soldiers to be shipped out during the mass retreat from Dunkirk. In 1942, his division was assigned to assist in the defence of Singapore, but arrived just before the island fell to Japan.

STEVEN FROELICH,

- Second in the Froelich Misadventure series (two per year, all set in Latin America): cult classics in the making

He's back! In this second travel memoir, The Man Without a Plan lands in Belize, a country about which he knows nada. But he quickly amasses an array of new friends – some of whom can even match his penchant for being in a near-constant buzz from industrial-quantity drugs and drink.

As ever, the characters with whom Steven ingratiates himself become his surrogate (dysfunctional) family. But Tracey, Devonais, Ask Bobby!, Valentino and a pack of kids led by the feral Molokai soon have Steven suspecting that his cheerfully transactional relationships are, in fact, ensnaring him in a web of scams. Will he be left for broke, stranded in this shabby paradise? Is his paranoia justifiable, or the result of continuous cocaine use?

EDITED BY REBEKAH PIERRE

- This book is all about the care system, and it's written by people who have experienced it first-hand

Free Loaves on Fridays is an anthology of stories, poems, reflections and letters by more than 100 care-experienced people, which aims to challenge worn-out stereotypes. This collection gives voice to diverse experiences including foster care, adoption, kinship care and semi-independent living, among others. Headlines written about care often entrench negative ideas and dominate the narrative, leaving care-experienced people with nothing but crumbs. This anthology is an opportunity to redirect the dialogue and present a window into a world that has been overlooked for too long.

IN PRAISE OF ADDICTION

Or How We Can Learn to Love Dependency in a Damaged World
ELIZABETH F. S. ROBERTS

- A transformative way of understanding addiction – and an invitation to find connection in the pleasures of life we know are bad for us

Elizabeth Roberts has experienced the suffering wrought by addiction: her sister's destructive alcoholism and dependency on prescription drugs, her mother's hoarding, and her own struggles with binge eating.

As for so many of us, addiction brought about self-loathing, reflecting her individual failure to exercise self-control, to keep it together. But during her fieldwork studying chemical exposure in Mexico City, her sense of addiction got turned upside down. She witnessed her neighbours, both young and old, defiantly celebrate their compulsive dependencies on alcohol, drugs, and junk food instead of hiding them in shame.

BLAME THE INTERN

On (Not) Breaking into the Creative Economy
ALEXANDRE FRENETTE

- An inside look at the work lives of college interns and their uncertain path to paid employment

While generations of young adults used to spend their summers working as lifeguards or camp counsellors, college students today are more likely to seek office experience as interns. Blame the Intern takes readers into the workspaces of the music industry to show how internships, especially unpaid ones, are problematic introductions to the working world that often provide little valuable training and are unlikely to lead to a job.

Since the 1980s, shifts in labour markets and careers have made employers less prone to invest in training entry-level employees who may quickly change jobs anyway. In recent decades, higher education has filled the gap, fuelling an explosive growth of internships to facilitate the transition from college to a career.

JOSEPH BEUYS AND HISTORY

DANIEL SPAULDING

- A groundbreaking study of one of the most important and influential artists of the postwar period

Joseph Beuys (1921-1986) was one of the most significant artists of the twentieth century – and one of the most controversial. Working in Germany in the aftermath of World War II, he explored a radically expanded concept of art through a practice that ranged from performative actions to large-scale sculptural ensembles.

While some contemporaries found his claim that ‘everyone is an artist’ liberating, even revolutionary, others accused him of fostering a dangerous cult of personality. In Joseph Beuys and History, the first rigorous art historical study of the artist in English, Daniel Spaulding presents a striking new interpretation of Beuys’s work and career.

THE FUTURE THAT WAS

A History of Third World Feminism Against Authoritarianism

DURBA MITRA

- How Third World women seized the means of knowledge production to fight against rising authoritarianism and imagine a future freer than our present

Beginning in the 1970s, women of the decolonising world offered new visions of liberation that centred the ideas and lives of women. Galvanised by International Women’s Year in 1975 and the UN’s Decade of Women, Third World women developed novel ideas of equality and self-determination, building a new internationalism in opposition to neocolonialism and postcolonial authoritarianism.

The Future That Was transforms the story of decolonisation and its aftermath through the history and ideas of women.

BREATHING SPACE

The Architecture of Pneumatic Beings

TIM ALTENHOF

- An illuminating account of how new knowledge about human respiration impacted architectural design in the early twentieth century

Breathing Space is a compelling and wide-ranging analysis of pneumatic phenomena in modern culture. Architect and historian Tim Altenhof brilliantly explores the physiology of breathing and its reciprocal relationship to bodies and buildings, both of which share a common atmosphere. Because breathing is controlled by the autonomic nervous system and cannot be willfully overridden, it takes place unconsciously and involuntarily – most of the time. However, beginning in the mid-nineteenth century, attitudes toward breathing changed significantly. Breathing became a widely investigated cultural and physiological phenomenon and was the basis for techniques and bodily practices that heightened pulmonary awareness.

- An unprecedented art-historical account of practices of image ingestion from ancient Egypt to the twentieth century

Eating and drinking images may seem like an anomalous notion but, since antiquity, in the European and Mediterranean worlds, people have swallowed down frescoes, icons, engravings, eucharistic hosts stamped with images, heraldic wafers, marzipan figures, and other sculpted dishes. Either specifically made for human consumption or diverted from their original purpose so as to be ingested, these figured artifacts have been not only gazed upon but also incorporated – taken into the body – as solids or liquids.
